

Dub Denman Canoe Trail

Description: This 5.3 mile stretch of river is the start of the Dub Denman Canoe Trail and consists of mostly flatwater and is barely wide enough to turn a canoe, however there are some shallow ledges and twisty boulder shoals as navigation risks. Above this section is runnable, but not considered the official canoe trail. Be aware of a rubble obstruction at the water treatment plant located just upstream of the next access point, GA Hwy 100. The obstruction is easily portaged on river left.
